President insists North Korea must denuclearize.

U.S. President Donald Trump said on Sunday that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un risks losing "everything" if he resumes hostility and his country must denuclearize, after the North said it had carried out a "successful test of great significance."

"Kim Jong Un is too smart and has far too much to lose, everything actually, if he acts in a hostile way. He signed a strong Denuclearization Agreement with me in Singapore," Trump said on Twitter, referring to his first summit with Kim in Singapore in 2018.

"He does not want to void his special relationship with the President of the United States or interfere with the U.S. Presidential Election in November," he said.

North Korea's state media KCNA reported earlier on Sunday that it had carried out a "very important" test at its Sohae satellite launch site, a rocket-testing ground that U.S. officials once said North Korea had promised to close.

The reported test comes ahead of a year-end deadline North Korea has imposed for the United States to drop its insistence on unilateral denuclearization. Pyongyang has warned it could take a "new path" amid the stalled talks with the United States.

"North Korea, under the leadership of Kim Jong Un, has tremendous economic potential, but it must denuclearize as promised," Trump said on Twitter.

The KCNA report

Trump says Kim Jong Un risks losing 'everything' after North Korea claims major test called it a "successful test of great significance" but did not specify what was tested.

Missile experts said it appeared likely the North Koreans had conducted a static test of a rocket engine, rather than a missile credible signal of what might await the world after the New Year."

Tensions have risen ahead of a year-end deadline set by North Korea, which has called on the United States to change its policy of insisting on launch.

"If it is indeed a static engine test for a new solid or liquid fuel missile, it is yet another loud signal that the door for diplomacy is quickly slamming, if it isn't already," said Vipin Narang, a nuclear affairs expert at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the United States.

"This could be a very Pyongyang's unilateral denuclearization and demanded relief from punishing sanctions.

On Saturday North Korea's ambassador to the United Nations said denuclearization was now off the negotiating table with the United States and lengthy talks with Washington are not needed.

"The results of the recent important test will have an important effect on changing the strategic position of the DPRK once again in the near future," KCNA reported, using the initials of North Korea's official name, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

Asked in a CBS "Face the Nation" interview if North Korea might be preparing to resume nuclear tests, U.S. National Security Adviser Robert O'Brien said that "would be a mistake on the part of North Korea."

Pyongyang's last nuclear test, its sixth and most powerful, took place in September 2017.

"It doesn't end well for them if they do. If North Korea takes a different path than the one it's promised ... we've got plenty of tools in the toolkit," O'Brien said on Sunday.

Recent days have also seen a return to the highly charged rhetoric that raised fears of war two years ago.

In 2017, Trump and Kim famously engaged in a war of words, with Trump calling Kim "Rocket Man" and North Korea calling Trump, now 73, a "dotard."

On Tuesday, Trump once again called Kim "Rocket Man" and said the United States reserved the right to use military force against North Korea. Pyongyang, in response, said any repeat of such language would represent "the relapse of the dotage of a dotard."

North Korea has announced it would convene a rare gathering of top ruling-party officials later this month, and on Wednesday state media showed photos of Kim taking a second symbolic horse ride on the country's sacred Mt. Paektu.

Saudi is lone suspect in Florida naval base rampage

2 Investigators believe a Saudi Air Force lieutenant acted alone when he killed three people and wounded eight at a U.S. Navy base in Pensacola, Florida, before being fatally shot by a deputy sheriff, the FBI said on Sunday. But they have yet to determine a motive for the rampage, even though fellow Saudi students at the base who were close to the shooter are cooperating with investigators, said Rachel Rojas, special agent in charge of the FBI's Jacksonville office and lead investigator on the case. Rojas said the FBI was working, as it does in most mass shootings, on the presumption that it was an act of terrorism, but she stressed that was largely to allow investigators to use special tools afforded to them in terrorism cases. "We are looking very hard at uncovering his motive" she said. REUTERS

U.S. and Iran swap prisoners in act of cooperation

3 The United States and Iran each freed a prisoner on Saturday in a rare act of cooperation between two longtime foes whose ties have worsened since President Donald Trump took office. Iran released Xiyue Wang, a U.S. citizen who had been held for three years on spying charges, while the United States freed Iranian Massoud Soleimani. He had been facing charges of violating U.S. sanctions against Tehran. A senior U.S. official said Washington was hopeful that Wang's release would lead to the freeing of other Americans held in Iran and it was a sign Tehran was willing to discuss other issues. Wang appeared to be in good health and humor, he said. Trump thanked Iran on Twitter for a "very fair negotiation" that led to the exchange, adding the swap showed the U.S. and Iran "can make a deal together."

Saudi Arabia ends gender-segregated entrances

4 Restaurants in Saudi Arabia will no longer need to maintain entrances segregated by sex, the authorities said on Sunday, further eroding some of the world's strictest social rules as sweeping reforms take hold. Previously, Saudi Arabia required all restaurants to have one entrance for families and women, and another for men on their own. The ministry of municipalities and rural affairs announced on Twitter this would no longer be mandatory. Unrelated men and women have for decades been barred from mixing in public places under strict social rules once enforced by clerics and the religious police. But Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman has brought the religious establishment to heel — partly by arresting critics — and eased other restrictions, including bans on women driving.

A new analysis shows just how big the wage gap is in the greater Boston area.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

A new report shows the wage gap between men and women in Boston is substantial. On average, women in the Greater Boston area make 70 cents for every dollar a white man makes. It has been reported that this is the largest gap since the previous analysis in 2017. The 2017 study found that women in the Greater Boston area earn 76 cents per every dollar men earn. When stratified, the situation is significantly worse for black and Latina women.

The study, done by the Boston Women's

ISTOCK

Workforce Council, shows that Latina women in the Greater Boston area earn 45 cents for every dollar a white man earns. Black women earn 49 cents for every dollar a white man earns. White women earn 70 cents for every dollar white men earn and Asian women earn 67 cents for every dollar white men earn.

Tania Del Rio, the executive director of the Mayor's Office of Women's Advancement told wbur.org. "What we do is just take a snapshot to see where we are at that point in time with the contributors that we had."

Del Rio added, "We're looking to grow the size of the data set because the more employers we have involved in this effort, the better off women are going to be."

The information from this study came from 2019 wage data for 136,437 employees, which is about 13 percent of Boston's workforce. The data comes from 123 companies in the area.

The analysis also showed the gender pay gap did vary per job. The highest gap belonged to service workers, where women earned 45 cents per a man's dollar. The second-highest gap is female executives who earn 70 cents per a man's dollar.

However, when it comes to administrative roles, women are actually out-earning men. They are earning 2 cents more on the dollar than men.

To help combat the wage gap, the city is supporting specific legislation and offering free salary negotiation workshops. The state is also offering salary negotiation classes as well.

Boston Housing Authority awarded $1.8 million to help combat chronic homelessness

Over the weekend, Mayor Walsh announced that the Boston Housing Authority (BHA) has been awarded $1.8 million from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The funding will be used to help support and fund 139 vouchers for homeless families, chronically homeless individuals and residents with disabilities. The program was awarded via the Mainstream Housing Choice Voucher Program, which allows residents with disabilities and their families to access affordable housing and other services.

Mayor Walsh said in a press release, "These vouchers will provide a much needed housing lifeline for some of our city's most vulnerable families and individuals with disabilities while offering services that can help to foster a better quality of life."

Walsh added that the "new vouchers fulfill a promise to all our residents, including those with disabilities, that there will always be a home for them here in Boston."

The press release stated, "The new vouchers will be issued immediately to eligible homeless families referred to BHA through the state's Leading the Way Home program and to chronically homeless individuals referred through the City of Boston's Coordinated Access System."

Earlier this year, Mayor Walsh and the BHA announced the insurance of 1,000 new rental housing vouchers. This brought the BHA portfolio of vouchers to a total of 13,500.

Tortured by Neuropathy Discomfort?

The inside story on the crazy secret that's helping lifelong sufferers find relief.

Steven Klayman, DC

BOSTON – An exciting clinical use survey study shows that a new cream can relieve leg and foot discomfort in just 15 minutes of applying.

And according to the study participants, burning, tingling, and numbness were the most common symptoms to be relieved.

The cream, called Neuriterx, recently developed by scientists in San Diego and became an instant hit among those suffering with neuropathy.

It's patent pending formula works within minutes of contacting the skin, initiating two phenomena's in the body.

The first phenomenon is known as vasodilation which triggers arteries to expand, improving circulation in the extremities.

The second is called TRPA1 activation and this is what really has people excited.

Research Shows Correlation Between Nerve Damage and Sensation

Published research shows that neuropathy symptoms arise when the nerves in your legs and feet break down and blood flow is lost to the areas which surround them.

As the nerves begin to die, sensation is lost. This lack of sensation is a major cause of burning, tingling, and numbness.

Remarkably, Neuriterx contains one of the few known substances to activate TRPA1, a special sensory pathway right below the skins surface which controls the sensitivity of nerves. It's these nerves that allow you to feel hot, cold, and touch.

And although this pathway has been known about for years, neither a drug or a pill has been able to target it successfully. That's why Neuriterx is so impressive.

"It all comes down to sensation. When sensation is lost the foot feels constantly asleep. It may also burn and tingle. When sensation is increased, these nagging symptoms often go away", explains Dr. Steven Klayman, company spokesperson for Neuriterx.

"That's why Neuriterx performed so well in our clinical use survey study. It increases sensation and blood flow wherever it's applied. It's impressive to say the least"

A Brilliant Technology Most Failed to Consider

Until now, many pharma companies have failed to develop a means of TRPA1 activation to manage neuropathy. Neuriterx is one of the first to take full advantage of this amazing discovery.

"Today's treatment methods have focused on minimizing discomfort instead of attacking its underlining cause. That's why millions of adults are still in excruciating discomfort every single day and are always battling effects" explains Klayman

"Neuriterx is different. Since the most commonly reported symptoms...burning, tingling and numb legs and feet...are caused by lack of sensation of the nerves, we've designed the formula increase their sensitivity.

And since these nerves are located right below the skin, we've chosen to formulate it as a cream. This allows for the ingredients to get to the site faster and without any serious side effects" he adds.

Study Finds Restoring Sensation the Key To Effective, Long Lasting Relief

With the conclusion of the human clinical use survey trial, the makers of Neuriterx are offering it nationwide. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men and women from all over the country are eager to get their hands on the new cream and according to the results study participants reported, they should be.

In the trial above, participants taking Neuriterx as needed experienced relief in just 15 minutes after applying! Burning, tingling and numbness were the most commonly reported symptoms to improve.

Even more impressive, when asked if this was the best product they used for their legs and feet, 90% gave a resounding "Yes" with all participants concluding they would absolutely recommend it to someone else.

A breakthrough in neuropathy management and supportive care, Neuriterx is shown to provide relief from:

- Discomfort
- Numbness
- Tingling
- Swelling
- Poor Balance

Neuriterx is a topical cream that is to be applied directly the legs and feet. It does not require a prescription.

The active ingredient is a compound known as cinnamaldehyde.

Studies show that neuropathy and discomfort caused when peripheral nerves breakdown and blood is unable to circulate into your legs and feet.

As these nerves deteriorate, sensation is lost.

This is why you may not feel hot or cold and your legs and feet may burn, tingle and go numb.

AMAZING LEG AND FOOT RELIEF: Neuriterx increases sensation and blood flow wherever its applied. It's now being used to relieve burning, tingling, numbness among other discomforts.

Worse, without proper blood flow, tissues and cells in these areas begin to die, causing pain that seems to never go away.

The cinnamaldehyde in Neuriterx is one of the very few compounds in that can activate TRPA1, a special sensory pathway that runs through your entire body.

According to published research, activating this pathway increases the sensitivity of nerves, relieving feelings of tingling and numbness in your legs and feet.

Supporting ingredients boost blood flow, support cellular health and stimulate the nerves for increased sensation.

Amazing Relief Exactly Where You Need It

With daily use, Neuriterx users report remarkable improvements in their quality of life without of the serious side effects or interactions associated with prescription drugs.

Readers can now enjoy an entirely new level of comfort that's both safe and affordable.

Users have found is also extremely effective, especially if nothing else has worked with 90% ravings it's the best leg and foot product they've ever tried.

"She wants to be the star"

Jane Lynch talks the polarizing pull of Sophie Lennon in "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel" Season 3.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metr.us

When Amazon Prime's original series "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel" first premiered in 2017, audiences were immediately taken with the unique story, colorful characters and relatable tale of a woman breaking the mold in a male-dominated industry. The witty, smart and scintillating show is the brainchild of Hollywood power couple Daniel Palladino and Amy Sherman-Palladino, and there's a reason why the series has won over ten awards this year alone.

The series starts out following Miriam "Midge" Maisel (Rachel Brosnahan) in what she thinks is a "perfect" life. She's got the husband, the kids, the comfy home and pretty clothes until it all comes crashing down one day with one all too familiar cliché — her husband leaves her for his secretary. In the midst of a breakdown of a marriage, Midge discovers a talent that she quite frankly has a natural edge for — stand-up comedy, and once the former housewife gets the attention of impassioned manager Susie (Alex Borstein) it's hard to slow the pair down. But of course, a lot of people do try.

One of the characters that does oppose Midge on her comedic journey is comedy superstar Sophie Lennon (Jane Lynch). When audiences first meet Sophie, she's outwardly a raunchy, self-deprecating comedian who is on the top of her comedy game and has made a lot of money doing so. On the inside (once you shed the fake fit suit), Sophie is actually an elitist Upper East Side resident who lives her life lavishly and lets her deep-rooted insecurities cloud her moral compass, especially when it comes to stony-eyed newcomer Midge. It's that exact polarizing pull in the character of Sophie Lennon that captivated Jane Lynch into taking on the role.

"The dichotomy of the character intrigued me — I basically get to play two different people," says Lynch. "But what did draw me in was the comic side, that was the first portion of the script that I read. I just fell in love with that, because I knew exactly what I was going to do and I could not wait to put on that fat suit."

Lynch is no stranger to the comedy game having numerous accolades from a plethora of shows and movies, but to prepare for the role of Sophie Lennon, Lynch dove a bit deeper to her roots and the comics she admired growing up.

"Phyllis Diller, Totie Fields, Joan Rivers — they were women who were gaudy and loud that I grew up watching on television. They were all very self-deprecating, and it was back in the day when a woman could only be in comedy if she made fun of herself and her looks and her unattractiveness to males and their inability to get a date. They did that with such grace and panache, and I remember them all very well as a kid and just loving them," adds Lynch.

The notion that women in comedy can only make it big if they make themselves "a gimmick" to men because they will "never take a real woman seriously" also plays a large role in the show. It's something that Sophie insists Midge takes on, and when the young comic refuses and then outs Sophie as a fraud to the world, tensions obviously arise. Couple in Sophie's burning insecurities and innate desire to break out as an actress, and you get a woman with a true career-driven vengeance.

"The insecurity manifests itself in her, but of course, it's always right there just below the surface," says Lynch. "She wants to be the star, she wants to be elevated and lifted above everybody else — that's her hustle. She wants to be held up as royalty. If she could, she would travel on a satin pillow all day long with her footmen carrying her. She always has her butler right by her, she never greets anybody at the door, she has them brought into her room and then she makes an entrance."

Sophie may want to launch Midge into a career-imploding abyss, but Lynch herself is actually pleased with the way the comedy world is going today. The actress still sees a long road ahead, but there has been growth since the timeframe of "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel."

"Stand-up is still almost completely male-dominated, there are some women stand-ups out there, but it's still very hard for a woman to break into," says Lynch. "But it is definitely the era of women in comedy in television for sure. A lot of it has to do with this generation of women who are right behind me who have a very calm entitlement to a seat at the table. There are all of these men as well who wouldn't think twice about hiring a woman — I think it's definitely gone leaps and bounds in terms of women in a position of power in television. A lot of that has to do with the number of platforms that there are, but I credit the guys as much as I credit the women, we're turning around a ship that has been going in one direction to go in another direction. It looks like we're going the right way now. I'm sure there will be bumps, and I'm sure there will be rough seas ahead, but we'll get through it all."

If the comedy world is a ship going in the right direction, Lynch is helping to steer the wheel in a big way, which is apparent after her Primetime Emmy Award for Outstanding Guest Actress in a Comedy.

Chiefs edge Patriots

Pats fall to 10-3 on the season.

ROBERT CRISCOLA
letters@metro.us

Tom Brady struggled once again as the Kansas City Chiefs came into New England and dealt the Patriots a 23-16 defeat at Gillette Stadium on Sunday afternoon. It was their first home loss since October 2017.

New England fired the opening salvo just 2:26 into the game when Brady found wideout Julian Edelman for a 37-yard touchdown pass. But the Chiefs would reel off 23 unanswered points, not allowing another score until the 4:23 mark of the third quarter.

Kansas City outscored the Patriots 17-0 in the second stanza. Patrick Mahomes connected with wideout Mecole Hardman for a 48-yard touchdown completion at the 13:04 mark. Brady immediately threw an interception on the following possession, giving the Chiefs excellent field position. Kansas City capitalized less than four minutes later as tight end Travis Kelce recorded a four-yard rushing score on a direct snap.

The Pats' special teams would get their squad back into the game as they blocked a Dustin Colquitt punt late in the third quarter to set the offense up at the Chiefs' 19-yard line. Two plays later, Brandon Bolden would run the ball in from 10 yards away on a jet sweep handoff. However, New England would fail on the two-point conversion, leaving the score at 23-13.

With 10 seconds left in the third quarter, the Patriots' defense forced a Kelce fumble. New England rookie wideout N'Keal Harry appeared to have a touchdown grab just 1:38 into the fourth quarter, but officials ruled him out of bounds at the three-yard line. New England settled for a Nick Folk field goal and never scored again. The Pats had the ball as far as the Kansas City five-yard line but failed to convert on a fourth-and-goal with 1:11 remaining. Brady finished 19-for-36 with just 169 passing yards.

The Patriots will try to bounce back in Week 15 against the Bengals (1-12) in Cincinnati. Andy Dalton and company, 31st in scoring going into Week 14 at 14.9 points per game, looked listless once more during a 27-19 loss to the Cleveland Browns.

Celtics have been a great bet

Heading into tonight's home game against Cleveland (7:30 p.m. NBC Sports Boston), the Boston Celtics are the best bet in pro basketball.

The Celtics earned two statement victories last week. Wednesday, Boston (-5.5) beat Miami 112-93. Friday, Boston (-3.5) dominated Denver 108-95 in a game that wasn't as close as the final score made it sound.

Those victories moved the Celtics to 16-5 straight up, 13-6-2 against the spread. That 68% cover rate represents a virtual printing press compared to the 52.4% needed to earn a profit against the standard 11/10 vigorish (point spread bettors risk $11 to win $10, or anything in that ratio).

How are the Celtics doing it? Let's take a look at some advanced stat categories sharps use to evaluate NBA teams:

"Defensive Efficiency: this is points allowed per possession. Boston has consistently ranked in the top five through the season. The Celtics are only allowing 103 points per 100 possessions. That has them on the short list of league elites.

A combination of great defense and slow pace (bottom third in possessions per game) has created a window of opportunity for Under bettors. Boston games are 8-13 to the Under thus far, a 62 percent win rate for those who love rooting for defense. Anyone prescient enough to bet "Boston and Under" every game (not an unrealistic tactic with Kyrie Irving moving to Brooklyn) would have a record of 29-13.

Will the Celtics continue to be a smart bet through the season? That depends on two things. First, continuing to play at this level! Second, market adjustments.

Odds makers (and sharps) have been slow to acknowledge Boston's quality, particularly when matched up against other playoff contenders. Coach Brad Stevens' bunch had win/cover over Milwaukee, Dallas and Toronto before last week's laughers. They also covered on the road against the Clippers in an overtime loss. Worth remembering with games against Indiana (Wednesday), Philadelphia (Thursday) and Dallas (Dec. 18) coming up soon.

For now, "Celtic green" has more than one meaning for bettors.

Aries Listen, observe and gather facts. Diplomacy will be required if you don't want to face a backlash and blame for something you didn't do. Keep the peace.

Taurus Let your memories lead you back in time to old friends, loved ones or pastimes you used to enjoy. It's never too late to go back. Love and romance will give you a big boost.

Gemini Be reserved around people whom you suspect of harboring ulterior motives. Do what's expected of you and move along. The more you get done, the better you will feel. Avoid disputes.

Cancer Choose to have fun. A positive attitude will lead to popularity and plans with someone special. An unexpected opportunity will help you reach a higher goal than anticipated.

Leo You can make changes at home, but don't go overbudget. An innovative plan will lower your overhead or give you the space you need to explore a new project.

Virgo You will be offered valuable information that will help you get ahead. Make arrangements to celebrate with a loved one. Personal gains and romance will liven up your day.

Libra Take care of your responsibilities. You will damage your reputation if you fall short or let someone else take control. Live up to the promises you make.

Scorpio Do what makes you happy. Talks will lead to healthy choices that will improve your livelihood, relationships and future. Make personal growth and romance priorities.

Sagittarius Don't accommodate someone who is using emotional tactics to pressure you into something. Stick to what's practical instead of trying to do the impossible to avoid an emotional or financial loss.

Capricorn Do what makes you happy. Talks will lead to healthy choices that will improve your livelihood, relationships and future. Make personal growth and romance priorities.

Aquarius Remember an incident and the people involved to find insight into how best to move forward now. An old goal may be revived, giving you a new perspective.

Pisces Say what's on your mind and clear the air. Once you have answers, you will know precisely what you must do. Use your imagination and take action. Romance is on the rise. EUGENIA EAST
